

PhD Workshop

WEDNESDAY

April 20

9 - 9.30 AM

Plenary session

Multimedialokaal (LLM/ Lok. 8.1) - Faculty of Law & Criminology

9.30 - 11.30 AM

Session: Covid-19 and its Implications on Health Law in Europe

Chair: Joaquin Cayon De Las Cuevas

Multimedialokaal (LLM/ Lok. 8.1) - Faculty of Law & Criminology

- Assessment of decision-making capacity of patients with capacity disorders during the Covid-19 Pandemic in Latvia – Laura Kadile, Latvia University
- Are covid certificates a proportionate measure to restrict freedom of movement during the omicron wave? - Danaja Fabcic Povse, Health and Aging Law Lab, LSTS, Vrije Universiteit Brussel
- Medical Liability and Compensation in Poland vis-à-vis COVID-19 Pandemic – Karolina Harasimowicz, Lazarski University Warsaw
- Investigating challenges related to data protection in clinical research during the COVID-19 pandemic: results from a mixed-methods empirical study – Teodora Lalova, KU Leuven
- “So help me God” - The uncertain future of religious exemptions from mandatory vaccination – Rogier Simons, Amsterdam University Medical Centers
- Population mental health: a Human Rights and International Humanitarian Law perspective – Giulia Bosi, Sant’Anna School of Advanced Studies, Pisa

Session: Health Law and AI – European Perspectives

Chair: Annagrazia Altavilla

Auditorium F (Lok 8.3) - Faculty of Law & Criminology

- Balancing Transparency of AI in Healthcare with Safety and Quality from Legal and Technical Perspective – Anastasiya Kiseleva, Vrije Universiteit Brussel / CY Cergy Paris University
- Professional Responsibility in Artificial Intelligence Health Decision-Making – Saar Hoek, Amsterdam University
- Building Trust in Artificial Intelligence in Medicine: A European Union Legal Perspective – Hannah van Kolfschooten, Law Centre

for Health and Life, Amsterdam University

- Shrek's perspective: a narrative on equity, health and AI – Sofia Palmieri, Gent University
- The Evolution of the Right to Health in a Context of Innovation: The necessary emergence of a right of access to medical innovations – Edouard Habib, Université de Montréal /Aix-Marseille University
- Legal and ethical issues of using digital and data science methods in the development of health products – Noémie Dubruel, Toulouse I Capitole University
- We Will See You in Court: The Possibility of Using Collective Redress Mechanisms by Genetic Groups Against Artificial Intelligence-Driven Genetic Research – Taner Kuru, Tilburg University

Session: Digitalisation and Health Law in Europe

Chair: Steven Lierman

IRCP-vergaderzaal (Liberty Room) - Faculty of Law & Criminology

- Why the EU's cross-border healthcare legislation is only partially suitable for digital healthcare: Analysis of reimbursement implications for patients – Kat Van Delm, KU Leuven
- Ethical and legal reflections on patient involvement in the eHealth era – Daniela Spajić, KU Leuven
- The role of automatic complaints in enhancing the quality of care – Paulien Walraet, Gent University
- What does it take to create a European Health Data Space? Production, use and re-use of Electronic Health Records data – Tugce Schmitt, Maastricht University
- Regulating mHealth to guarantee quality and inclusive healthcare – Giulia Re Ferrè, Milan University
- Regulatory Avenues for 3D Bioprinting of Human Tissues – Mirko Đuković, Central European University
- How Can Legislation Foster Public Trust in Electronic Health Records? A Framework Analysis of European Health Data Legislation - Kimon Papadopoulos, Zurich University

Session: Actual challenges in European and International Health Laws

Chair: Karl Harald Søvig

Filmzaal - Faculty of Law & Criminology

- Citizen science for improved healthcare: where does the law stand? – Olga Gkotsopoulou, Vrije Universiteit Brussel
- Ensuring global equitable access to vaccines through the notion of 'state capabilities' of low-and-middle-income-countries – Pramiti Parwani, Amsterdam University
- Financial penalties of the Patients' Rights Ombudsman for infringement of collective patients' rights in Poland – Karolina

Wierzbicka, Lodz University

- Liability for Healthcare-Associated Infections: between public health and patient safety - Maria Sharkova, University for National and World Economy (Sofia)
- Evaluation of the necessity-based model and consent-based model for the processing of biosamples and health data in clinical biobanks – Noemi Condit, Bologna University
- Health data governance in China: Emphasising 'sharing' and 'protection' based on the right to health - Luijia Sun, Erasmus University Rotterdam

11.30 - 12.00PM

Plenary Session

Multimedialokaal (LLM/ Lok. 8.1) - Faculty of Law & Criminology

